

Eric McNamee Bio

Golf all started for Eric at the age of 9 in his hometown of Laurel Springs, NJ. The passion for the game was instant and strong from the first trips to the driving range with his father. He grew up playing local executive and public courses before his family joined Woodbury CC. Playing high school golf at Paul VI in Haddonfield, NJ helped accelerate his skill which led to a golf scholarship and Finance degree from LaSalle University.

In 1997, Eric turned professional and started his path to becoming a PGA Professional, competitive player, and experienced teacher and coach. Employment as a golf professional at Stonewall, Chester Valley GC, ChampionsGate Golf Resort, Atlantic City CC, Seaview Golf Resort, and Gulph Mills GC has paved the way for his experience.

Playing accomplishments include 7 wins in the Philadelphia Section PGA, 11 local Pro-Am victories, Medalist at the 1997 PGA Playing Ability Test, and multiple appearances in PA State Opens, Philadelphia Opens and Section Cup Teams. Other playing experience includes participation in the TaylorMade/Adidas PGA Winter Series events, Srixon PGA Tournament Series, North Florida PGA Winter Tour, Hooters Tour, Moonlight Tour, and Nationwide and PGA Tour Monday qualifiers. Eric was also a 4 year varsity/scholarship player on the LaSalle University Golf Team.

Eric's teaching and coaching experience includes thousands of individual lessons, ladies' golf schools, junior camps and clinics, inner city clinics, club fitting, video analysis, playing lessons, and travelling camps and instruction in Florida. Education and observation from teachers like David Leadbetter, Bob Toski, Sean Foley, Rick Smith, Butch Harmon, Bob Rotella and many other instructors have formed the philosophy of Eric's teachings.
